(RE)DISCOVERING THE GREAT WAR MULTIDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH OF MODERN CONFLICTS

Ljubljana – Kobarid
Slovenia

May 22nd–24th 2015

On May 24th, 2015 one hundred years will have passed since the beginning of the armed conflict between the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the Kingdom of Italy on the Soča / Isonzo Front. We will mark the occasion of the centenary with the first international conference on multidisciplinary research of modern conflicts, focusing on the Great War and its numerous legacies, to take place in Slovenia.

We got 24 interesting presentations from different research fields such as archaeology, history, museology, anthropology, geography and others from authors from all across Europe. There will be 11 presentations on the first day at the National Museum of Contemporary History in Ljubljana (May 22nd 2015) and 13 on the second day at Kobarid museum (May 23rd 2015), followed by summary and discussion made by Dr Nicholas J Saunders at the end. The final day will be consisted of a field trip and a trip back to Ljubljana.
